

THE CAPITOL WHIRL

A Digest of Things Political Occurring At Harrisburg

By International News Service
HARRISBURG, May 20 — Members of the 113-member Republican and Democratic State Committees will be selected by the electorate at the primary election tomorrow.

Nate President Pro Tempore M.
Arvey Taylor, of Harrisburg, is Republican state chairman, while Democratic organization has been headed by J. Warren Mickle, Bedford. Mickle had been committee secretary until last December when he was chosen interim chairman succeeding Mayor David Lawrence, of Pittsburgh.

This spring, as in many pre-war years, thousands of students have been touring the State Capitol in Harrisburg to see the workings of state governments. During the war, when gasoline and tire restrictions prevailed, only a small number of students visited the State house. Nearly every week-day a spring long line of boys and girls, following guides through the capitol, have been a common sight.
Many students, traveling in buses, have come from the extreme ends of the State to tour the Commonwealth's Capitol building.

Some students have been fortunate enough to be touring the State house when Gov. Edward Martin was at his desk. If the governor informed that students are in his reception room, he frequently takes time out to deliver a short lecture on Americanism. In the Governor's reception room is a small-scale model of the state capitol up which attracts much attention. Students usually are impressed with the beauty of the Senate and House chambers located on the second floor of the main capitol building.

The Department of Public Assistance has reported that the commonwealth will provide up to a maximum of $150 for the burial of deceased relief recipients. Acting relief Robert P. Wray explained that the state will pay $35 for a casket, $15 for an outer case, $5 for transportation, $25 for professional services, $20 for transportation of body to survivors, $25 for grave space and $25 for cemetery labor.

During the next 10 years, Pennsylvania municipalities will face the severest test in their history.
H. F. Alderfer, director of the Pennsylvania Department of Municipal Affairs, has announced that the next decade municipalities will be called upon to render more services, their real estate revenues will decline, migration outside municipal boundaries will continue, industrial strife will tax their ability to maintain law and order, the need for modern housing, transportation, and disposal facilities and other public works will increase.

les of Cotton Again Burst Into Flame Here

Fire again broke out yesterday noon in about seven of the bales of cotton which on Thursday noon had been discovered afire in a box car on the Pennsylvania road here.

Bristol Consolidated firemen and a from America Hose, Hook and Ladder Co., No. 2, responded to the fire yesterday.

About seven of the few dozen bales which lay on the ground at a loading at Trenton avenue and Garfield street, had again burst into flame yesterday. The first battle of firemen with the bales was yesterday afternoon when the car was passing through Bristol. The bales were shifted to the siding and bales sprayed with water, then taken out one by one.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

Iranian Government troops have attacked Azerbaijan, the Tabriz radio announced, and a military government and virtual martial law have been established in the provincial capital.

This new development was said to have made more difficult the position of the United Nations Security Council, which will make still another attempt when it meets on Wednesday to find out whether there still are Russian troops in Iran.

Syria has notified the Council that British and French troops are out of that country. The sub-committee investigating Franco Spain will hear Premier Giral of the Spanish Republican Government at a public session on Thursday.

In Spain, Generalissimo Franco said the country would resist attempts at "frenchification" and would overthrow all foreign influences.

BE SURE TO VOTE!

If you are a registered Republican, be sure to get to the polls tomorrow, and cast your vote.

The importance of voting, at this Primary Election, goes much farther than the question of who is nominated.
It may be that you are safe in assuming that the candidates you favor will be successful whether you vote or not.

But you should cast your ballot anyway.
The size of the Republican vote in Pennsylvania will have a powerful significance both in national affairs and in the coming General Election.

Uncle Sam is sick. The recent renewed outbreak of major strikes, which are paralyzing the nation's economy and threatening the future of the whole world, are emphasizing the breakdown of the national government under New Deal leadership. Neither in the White House nor elsewhere in the Democratic high command does there appear to be the leadership, understanding or courage to meet these increasing problems.

Yet we cannot continue indefinitely to endure the shocks and strains of the continuing unmet emergencies.
Something must break, and the break may prove disastrous.

Nothing can be more helpful, in putting backbone back where it is needed, than a huge turnout of Republican votes. This will serve notice, on the Washington in-competents, that the American people are about to seize again, through the Republican party, control of their own destiny.

If you dislike and mistrust the recent trends in the Federal government, a Republican vote tomorrow is your quickest and surest method of recording your protest.

As a Republican, if you earnestly wish for the future welfare and success of your Party, the best service you can render it tomorrow is to take the time and the trouble of voting.

A mass turnout of Republican votes will be the strongest stimulant for victory this fall.

Patriotism and politics go hand in hand.
BE SURE TO VOTE!

"Vets" in Phila. Area Get $8,200,000 in Past Month

PHILADELPHIA, May 20 — (INS) —
More than $8,200,000 was disclosed today to have been given out to veterans of World War II in the Philadelphia area during the last month by the Federal Government.

The funds, according to the Veterans' Administration, were allocated to veterans in unemployment compensation, pensions, educational tuition fees, students subsistence allowance, and other GI benefits.

The money was received by nearly 11,000 veterans, and constituted more than double the entire monthly payroll of the city and county.

The Veterans Administration, however, asserted that the sum was only a fraction of the fixed charges that must be paid for many years due to the war. It pointed out that one dollar out of every eight paid in Federal taxes, will find its way into the agency's program for veterans by 1947.

MacArthur Issues Warning Against Further Violence

TOKYO, May 20 — (INS) — Gen.
Douglas MacArthur stepped squarely into Japan's disturbed internal situation today by issuing a quiet but stern warning against further mob violence.

The Supreme Allied Command took action following a hunger demonstration by an estimated 65,000 persons in front of the Imperial Palace grounds Sunday.

MacArthur blamed the disturbance—the second within the month — on "disorderly minorities" and said such demonstrations will "not be permitted to continue."

The Sunday demonstration was definitely leftist in political complexion and a delegation—headed by Communist Leader Kiyuchi Tokuda —was chosen to present a petition for more food to Premier-Designate Shigeru Yoshida.

MacArthur appealed to the Japanese people as a whole to repudiate "undisciplined elements" and thereby remove the need for physical Allied intervention.

MacArthur declared:
"I find it necessary to caution the Japanese people that the growing tendency towards mass violence and physical processes of intimidation under organized leadership present a grave menace to the future development of Japan."

tween the carriers and their two major brotherhoods over hourly wage increases before expiration of the five-day truce ordered Saturday just before the zero-strike hour.

HIGH SCHOOL EDUCATION

Are high schools of today failing to give most of their graduates the education they need because they are enslaved by college requirements? Of the 7,000,000 boys and girls in high school, only 20 per cent have the ability, the desire and the need to enter college, yet college requirements dictate what high schools must teach, says Benjamin M. Steigman in the American Mercury.
Mr. Steigman says that studies have become of such a standardized preparatory nature and are so often barren of value to the 80 per cent who do not go to college that the nation's high schools are united by a common need for liberation. He speaks out for a "sensibly planned education" which will better fit youngsters who can not go farther than high school, to cope with problems of their future.
"The proper study, one would imagine, even of adolescent mankind, should be man," says the writer, who is head of the High School of Music and Art in New York City. "Yet economics is required study only in some of our American high schools, sociology rarely appears even as an elective. Psychology, government, or the fundamentals of law, it seems, hardly ever. Stripped of their terrifying nomenclature, their subjects might do American men and women of tomorrow a lot more good than isosceles triangles and the five declensions of Latin nouns."
American history, too, should be taught in all high schools, Mr. Steigman might have added. Especially in New York City high schools.
High school graduates, more often than not, are found to be woefully deficient in the fundamentals of how to read, how to write and how to speak. A more rounded high school education is a timely subject for state officials of public instruction and for the National Education Association.

WHERE HAS HE BEEN?

New York's state industrial commissioner, in the course of figuring unemployment insurance tax rates for proprietors of eating and drinking places, has worked out a schedule of tips for waiters which he thinks proper for tax purposes and, apparently, for the customer as well. He suggests a 7½ per cent tip for food and beverage service at tables, and a 5 per cent tip for counter and drug store service.
The commissioner, obviously, didn't eat out much during the war. Either that or he is possessed of a tough hide and a charmed life. All but the most cloistered must have learned by now that the traditional 10 per cent gratuity earns the giver a sneer at best, and is accompanied by the reasonable likelihood of getting a cup of coffee down his miserly neck or the chair pulled out from under him to speed his departure.

The question of salaries was then taken up. The salary of the janitor of the Wood street school house was made the same as before, $26 per month.

Teachers salaries were next considered. Those in Wood street school were fixed as follows: Preparatory department, $45; principal of primaries B and C, $41; assistant, $35.

In the Washington street school the secondary and primaries A, B and C were all made $40.

West Bristol Residents Are Wed Here Saturday

Two residents of West Bristol were united in marriage on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 in Bristol Presbyterian Church.

Escorted to the altar by her father, Miss Phyllis D. Lombardo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lombardo, Steele avenue, became the wife of Mr. Harvey C. Shaw, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey C. Shaw. Officiating within the chancel was the Rev. Edward Gearhart Yeomans, pastor of the church. Organist, Mrs. Marburg D. Wengley, Mulberry street, also accompanied the vocalist, Miss Jean Stetson, Otter street. Miss Stetson sang "O Promise Me" and "At Dawning."

A trio of young women attended the bride, these being inclusive of: Miss Mary Doster, Jefferson avenue, as maid of honor; Mrs. Robert H. Leigh, Cornwells Heights, sister of the bride, and Miss Helen Shaw, West Bristol, sister of the groom. The latter two were bridesmaids.

Mr. John J. Supper, Mill street, served in the capacity of best man; with brothers of the bride and groom, Messrs. Samuel J. Lombardo and Charles Shaw, as ushers.

An attractive white gown worn by the bride was fashioned with a satin bodice and peplum, and net skirt, train. Her net veil fell from a headpiece formed of satin rosebuds. White satin slippers completed her costume, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses with an orchid in the center.

The maid of honor was attired in blue, and the bridesmaids in pink. Their costumes had satin bodices and floor-length skirts of net. Short veils were attached to head wreaths of flowers which matched their gowns. Their bouquets were composed of mixed flowers. The trio wore silver slippers.

A number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties were in attendance at the reception in St. Ann's Club home, Wood street. Leaving for a nine days honeymoon at Virginia Beach, Va., Mrs. Shaw wore a two-piece suit of light-weight green wool, white hat and accessories, and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Gifts of the bride to her attendants were elbow length gloves of white mesh; and the groom presented the best man and ushers with silver belt buckles.

Selected by Mrs. Lombardo, mother of the bride, for the ceremony, was a dress of gray, white flower hat, black accessories, and a corsage of pink sweet-peas. Mrs. Shaw, the groom's mother, chose a dusty pink dress, white hat and accessories, and a corsage of sweet-peas.

CLEAN-UP Time Again!

By MARION CLYDE MCCARROLL

CLEAN-UP time again!

Time to get the house spick and span, so it will look cooler during the hot weather; to put away heavy draperies and thick rugs, put down the lightweight fiber rugs and get out the summery chintz and crotonne hangings, the crisp, fresh, dotted Swiss window curtains.

Before any of the latter go up, of course, every room will have its seasonal face-washing and general going-over with scrubbing brush, cleaning cloths and shiner-uppers. So stock up on equipment, including a plentiful and varied supply of bottled cleaning fluids so that you'll have everything you need right at hand when you need it. Many of the new cleaners require no rinsing, which puts the spring clean-up across with less elbow grease on the part of the conscientious housewife.

Pictured here are a few suggestions to help out on this business of getting the work done with the least possible expenditure of energy.

Instead of Climbing Up on her stepladder and washing walls from the top down, the clever spring cleaner-upper begins at the bottom and washes up, thus doing away with cascading rivulets as she works.

For a beautiful satiny finish on furniture, pour some of your bottled furniture polish on a soft cloth and rub along the grain of the wood.

If You Run Out of cleaner while working, mix up one gal. water, one c. bottled ammonia, 1/2 c. vinegar and 1/4 c. baking soda and keep going.

Long Life For your floor? Just spread a small amount of self-polishing wax over it in thin coat, using cheesecloth pad or handied applicator.

Morrisville Business Zones Are Outlined

MORRISVILLE, May 20—Common council, meeting in regular session here, established an "A" business section on the west side of North Pennsylvania avenue from Osborne to Hillcrest and a "B" business district in the fourth ward, on the east side of South Pennsylvania south of Cleveland avenue.

Tax Collector Neal Nolan reported that the 1945 tax duplicate was closed, with $36.53 authorized to be filed with the county treasurer. The sum of $855.30 was reported as uncollectible, mainly from former residents who had moved.

An ordinance was passed raising rates per hour of labor for borough employees from 65 cents to a maximum of 85 cents per hour. Borough Engineer Harry H. Lee was voted a cash fund of $250 to be used for the payment of ash collectors. It was also reported that Lee has been bonded for $500.

The resignation of Marvin Allison from the police department was accepted. Vote was taken on whether to maintain the three or four-man department and ended in a deadlock. It was decided to maintain the present 24-hour police protection with the three-man force, with a part time employee filling in.

McNEILL SKEPTICAL OF RECOVERING CUP

By Les Conklin
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, May 20—(INS)—Don McNeill, of Orange, N. J., the former champion who was beaten by Pancho Segura of Ecuador recently in the American national indoor tennis singles championship, doesn't think the United States should be over-optimistic about recapturing the Davis Cup from Australia. He says:

"Frankly, I am skeptical about our chances. I believe that Jack Bromwich of Australia can win two singles matches, and we will probably lose the doubles. That's all Australia would need to keep the cup."

Frank Guernsey, who teamed up with McNeill to win the American indoor doubles championship, rates the challenge round a toss-up.

Gardner Mulloy, sixth ranking American player, is one of the optimistic ones. He says:

"Don't sell America short. I can't see that Bromwich will be as good as he was in 1939 and I think that their new star, Denny Pails, is over-rated."

Australian tennis authorities have their hearts set on retaining the Cup. They have refused to let Pails and Bromwich play at Wimbledon, England, or in the American championships at Forest Hills, N. Y. They fear that if their stars go in for a long campaign, they will stale off both mentally and physically by the time the Davis Cup matches come along.

Harry Hopman, former Davis Cup star, sends word from Australia that Bromwich is playing great tennis, as is Pails, but that the third Australian star, Adrian Quist, is far below his best form.

Bromwich got into condition rapidly after his discharge from Army service last year. He went through the fighting with the Australian Infantry in New Guinea and came out with nothing worse than a slight bullet wound on his hand and a mild case of malaria. Bromwich seems to have completely rid himself of the malaria, and the wound has never troubled him. He is 27 years old now and is bigger than in 1939 when he helped the Australian team win the Davis Cup from the United States. He now stands just under six feet and weighs 162 pounds. Hopman says of him:

"I don't think Bromwich is as fit as he should be for a Davis Cup tie nor do I think that he is as good as when he played in the United States in 1939. But I do feel that he is on the way to better form than he had in those days, particularly in the matter of temperament. If he gets the right kind of practice, I am sure that he will surpass his 1939 showing. I say this because I know his mental outlook on the game has improved."

Hopman says Bromwich is using his two-handed shots with great effect, but adds:

"I am afraid I cannot say the same for many of Adrian Quist's strokes. Quist is far below the form that carried him to the heights in 1939. He was 33 in January and that may have something to do with his difficulty in getting back to condition. He has had arm and shoulder trouble in the first two months of the tennis season in Australia this year and missed two of the four major tournaments."

"When Quist did meet worthwhile opposition, such as Pails, he played without his usual confidence. However, I think he will be right back to Davis Cup form when the time comes for Australia to select the team to defend the trophy in December."

Booth Tarkington, Beloved Novelist, Dies in Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 20—(INS)—Death closed the last page today on the career of Booth Tarkington, one of America's foremost and most-beloved novelists.

Tarkington died last night at his Indianapolis home, in the State which his literary works made an international byword. He was 76 years old.

Death came to the famed Hoosier through a bronchial obstruction. He had been ill for the past two months, and was bedfast most of the time.

But even in his physical twilight, the prolific Tarkington was working on another novel. A title had not been selected for the unfinished work.

Mrs. Tarkington was at his bedside when he died.

The famous novelist-playwright died in his old-fashioned house on Indianapolis' North Meridian street—the same house which provided descriptions for homes in his "Gay Nineties" tales.

No Settlement in Sight In Truck Drivers' Strike

PHILADELPHIA, May 20—(INS)—The strike of newspaper truck drivers halted delivery of Philadelphia's three major newspapers for the fifth day today with no settlement in sight.

The publishers of the Evening Bulletin, and the two morning papers—the Inquirer and the Record—said no negotiations were in progress, nor were there any scheduled with the striking members of the AFL-Philadelphia Newspaper and Magazine Chauffeurs and Handlers Union.

Meanwhile, thousands of Philadelphians swarmed the offices of the huge dailies for over-the-counter sales, while youngsters on the street did a landoffice business of selling papers at inflated prices to news-starved residents.

One man was stabbed yesterday as the result of a scuffle in the crowd trying to buy newspapers. Several other persons were reported to have been beaten in disputes centering on their carrying of bundles of newspapers.

HULMEVILLE

A new floor covering, composed of inlaid linoleum blocks placed in concrete, was installed in the auditorium of Neshaun Methodist Church, last week.

The Rev. and Mrs. Walter H. Cannon and children, Verna and Harry, of Reading, spent the week-end with relatives in town.

The sum of $23.52 was cleared by the Youth Fellowship at the musical which the members presented in the Methodist church on Wednesday evening last.

ERIE—Five persons have gone on the warpath looking for one "Jim Lacey." Unknown to others, each gave him $20 a "binder" when he hinted he could provide an apartment.

For five innings the tilt was a close affair and then the "Vets" broke out in a hitting spree and solid base blows mixed with some loose playing accounted for six runs. Five more were added in the following frame and four in the last two innings.
